Ulster County to Have Three Congressmen

ALBANY

Ulster County will have three congressmen instead of one next year as revealed exclusively in The Sunday Freeman.

The new plan which will go to the New York State Legislature Wednesday cuts the state from 41 to 39 congressmen, splits Ulster into three districts and wipes out the district of Rep. Bella Abzug, fiery New York City Democrat.

Under the new redistricting the eastern river towns of Ulster County will be put in the 25th Congressional District, the southern Ulster towns will be in the 26th and the northern western towns will be in the 27th.

The 25th District will be comprised of the City of Kingston, and the towns of Saugerties, Ulster, Esopus and Lloyd. Also, the counties of Dutchess and Putnam, one town (Gallatin) in Columbia County and six towns in Westchester County. They are Bedford, Cortland, Lewisboro, North Salem, Somers and Yorktown. This district encompasses a great deal of the present district of incumbent Rep. Republican Hamilton Fish Jr.

The 26th District will include three southrn Ulster towns of Marlboro, Plattekill and Shawangunk as well as the counties of Orange and Rockland where GOP Assemblyman Benjamin A. Gilman plans to oppose the incumbent Democrat Congressman John Dow.

The 27th District will take in 13 towns of Ulster County and stretch north close to several hundred miles to take in Ithaca in Tompkins County. The 13 Ulster towns include: Hardenburgh, Shandaken, Denning, Woodstock, Olive, Hurley, Wawarsing, Gardiner, New Paltz, Rochester, Marbletown, Rosendale and Town of Kingston.

It will also include the counties of Tioga, Broome and Sullivan counties and parts of Tomkins, Chemung and Delaware.

In Tomkins County, the district will include the City of Ithaca, and the towns of Caroline, Danby, Newfield and Town of Ithaca. In Chemung, the towns of Erin, Van Etten, Baldwin and Chemung are included, and in the county of Delaware — Masonville, Deposit, Tompkins, Walton, Hamden, Delhi, Bovina, Andes, Meridith, Kortright, Harpersfield, Stamford, Roxbury, Middletown, Colchester and Hancock.

The remap gives the 27th District to incumbent Republican Howard Robison of Tioga County, the prime mover for this latest congressional redistricting which has since been dubbed the "Robison Revision." Under the new plan, Robison was able to retain the Tompkins County portion of his district and delete much of Ulster County which he has said he did not wish to represent.

The long-awaited bill was set for passage Wednesday in order to give candidates as much time as possible to campaign in the new districts.

Because of population shifts to the suburbs since 1960, Manhattan loses one of its four seats, that of Mrs. Abzug.

Seemingly never at a loss for words, she issued a two-sentence statement Monday night after learning her district had been wiped off the map.

Mrs. Abzug, who learned of the redistricting plan a month or so ago—and protested repeatedly, scheduled a news conference today to expand on her views.

"I shall run for reelection regardless," was her initial reaction. "In a test of strength with the old style politicians, I place my trust in the people who are more than ever determined to have new, activist leadership and in women who are demanding they get more representation in Congress, not less."

The reapportionment plan was also criticized by some lawmakers for allegedly making a deliberate attempt to exclude blacks from electing a second congressman in Brooklyn.

Assemblyman Samuel Wright D—Brooklyn, noted the plan protects the Bedford-Stuyvesant district of Rep. Shirley Chisholm, but that the area's 900,000 blacks and Puerto Ricans could easily elect two congressmen.

Instead the area outside Mrs. Chisholm's district has split up into four surrounding districts of white Democrats.

"We are very disturbed and we are going to vote against this plan," Wright said. "We are going to run candidates in each and everyone of these areas against these people-incumbents.

"The Republicans here are trying to deny representatives that would articulate the problems of these areas," Wright said.

In response, Richard S. Scolaro, one of the top aides to the reapportionment committee said the plan guaranteed a black representative.

"If we had split the area, we don't think a black could have been elected in either one," he said.

Assemblyman Francis J. Boland, R-Binghamton, chairman of the reapportionment committee said it had achieved its main goal of meeting "one-man, one-vote" standards by keeping the districts within one per cent of the standard of 467,725 persons.

Bell Vows Fight on Remap Plan

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

The plan to give Ulster County three congressmen would be "an obscenity to the people of Ulster County," Assemblyman H. Clark Bell charged today, vowing to fight the plan on the floor of the Legislature Wednesday when it comes up for a vote.

Bell said that as a member of the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment he "cannot and will not sign the committee's report" because the plan is not the work product of the committee but the work of the incumbent congressmen who devised it.

Meanwhile Republican Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. denied having any part in slicing Ulster into three districts, saying that the first he knew of the proposal was when he read it in The Sunday Freeman.

Bell charged further that the congressmen's plans "are geared to achieving maximum political advantage for the incumbent congressmen and leave on the cutting room floor such items as community interest, county lines, tradition, history and compactness and a lot of other items of immense importance and impact on the local level."

The plan to be voted on slices Ulster into three districts giving the eastern river towns and the City of Kingston to Congressman Fish, three southern Ulster towns to the Democrat Rep. John Dow and 13 towns to incumbent Republican Howard Robinson of Tioga County.

Bell said that "the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment develped a new congressional district which left Ulster intact, but that plan did not satisfy our congressmen. Our New York Congressmen, led by Robert McEwen and Robinson as their spokesmen. prevailed on Gov. Rockefeller to scrap the Joint Legislative Committee proposal and adopt the plans worked out by the congressmen."

Special

Fish maintains that the complaint in Congress has been that it (Congress) has not been consulted on any proposed redistricting. He said that "in my conversations with State Chairman Charles Lanigan, he has repeatedly told me that all redistricting is in the hands of the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment."

Bell contends that "whether it was Republican congressmen or Democrat congressmen, the sword held over the head of Gov. Rockefeller and the leaders was revenue sharing. The Governor desperately needs revenue sharing to balance the state's budget," Bell explained, adding, "The congressmen were aware of this and they used this as a club to force the cooperation of the governor and legislative leaders to cut up the state in a manner that best suits their own politcal interests."

A spokesman for Congressman Fish said that Fish has never been in touch with the Committee on Reapportionment. He said he saw the plan a week ago Thursday and that it included Columbia, Dutchess, the township of Saugerties, Putnam and 121,000 people out of northern Westchester.

The spokesman said that Fish wants to maintain Columbia, Greene, Ulster and Dutchess as the base part of the district with additions from Putnam or "anywhere else."

In his floor fight to oppose the remap plan, Bell will also point out that the people of Ulster County did not need a Joint Legislative Committee, which this year alone was budgeted at a quarter of a million "when all the important decisions apparently were made by incumbent congressmen.

"What was the need to go through this state holding public hearings, gathering public reaction, learning local problems, getting to understand the uniqueness of local communities of interest, gathering research material, studying case law, reviewing reapportionment and redistricting plans of sister states?" he asks, "The taxpayers could have saved a lot of money and a lot of effort could have been saved by simply advising the incumbent congressmen to submit their own self-serving plans to the governor and the legislature could have busied themselves with other work such as no-fault insurance, upgrading of the quality of treatment for our mentally retarded and so forth."

Fish's aide said that "We are very displeased with any plan that does not give us the basic Hudson Valley . . . apparently we are not going to get it."

The Ulster County Republican Committee will meet in convention Wednesday night to nominate candidates for various posts up for election in November. It is expected that candidates will be named for all positions except congressmen.

The local GOP, on hearing of the congressional split of Ulster County, suggested last weekend that it would "sterilize" the county, preventing it from ever having a congressman of its own for at least 10 years or untill the next reapportionment.

Ulster is one of the smaller counties in the state being split three ways congressionally and it is added cause for concern because the county was also recently divided two ways in the making of its new Assembly and State Senate districts.

New Hampshire...The First of Several

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) —Awarded the title of leading contender almost two years ago, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine today faced the voters for the first time since he became a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination. He was favored over his only serious challenger, Sen. George S. McGovern, in New Hampshire's inaugural 1972 primary.

Despite a lack of issues, an overpopulated field, the threat of snow and a pervading apathy, the first-in-the-nation primary was expected to provide a preliminary indication of Democatic sentiment on a challenger for President Nixon.

Between 60,000 and 70,000 voters were expected to vote in the Democratic primary. In addition to Muskie and McGovern, the field included Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, and Ned Coll, 32, an antipoverty worker from Connecticut who is legally too young to serve as President.

In addition, there was a well-financed, smoothly organized write-in campaign for Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. An effort, repudiated in advance, to write in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts did not appear to have any impact.

President Nixon was an overwhelming favorite to win the Republican primary, although he was not expected to reach the 79 per cent majority he achieved in 1968. Some 100,000 GOP voters were expected to choose between Nixon, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California, running almost strictly on an antiwar platform; and conservative Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, who accused the President of "selling out" Nationalist China on Nixon's recent trip to Peking.

The first returns early today from the village of Dixville Notch near the Canadian border gave the lead to Muskie and Nixon. Seventeen voters in the tiny hamlet cast their ballots at midnight, with all 11 Republican votes going for Nixon and five of the six Democrats voting for Muskie. The other democratic vote went to McGovern, the South Dakota antiwar Senator.

It was the first Presidential preference primary since the voting age was lowered to 18, and also marked the first time the state's independent voters could participate in a primary —two factors that made the ultimate size of today's vote difficult to predict.

Although not personally involved, four other major candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination will be directly affected by the outcome in New Hampshire. They are Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace,, New York Mayor John Lindsay and Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Henry M. Jackson of Washington, all of whom skipped the New Hampshire primary to make their starts in Florida a week from today.

The New Hampshire primary was considered important to Muskie and McGovern and probably critical for McCloskey.

With the most at stake, Muskie hoped to poll a majority or better to cement his standing as a front-runner.

Anything less than 50 per cent probably would be construed as a setback for the Maine Senator who, all along, has been regarded as a shoo-in in a state where he is widely known and considered a neighbor.

McGovern has set his sights on 25 per cent of the vote and a late surge of support gave new buoyancy to his campaign.

On the last full day of campaigning, McGovern said "there is not the slightest doubt we are moving up. I don't know if it's enough."

McCloskey has stated publicly that if he did not get at least 20 per cent of the vote in the GOP primary he would withdraw as a Presidential candidate and concentrate on winning reelection to the House. Since then, he and his campaign aides have hedged slightly on the 20 per cent figure.

Commission Recommends School Financing by States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential commission recommended Monday that the states take over the major share of financing public schools so that students in poor districts have as good a chance at a quality education as those in rich areas.

The 18-member commission headed by former Defense Secretary Neil McElroy thus added its voice to a growing chorus opposed to financing public schools primarily through local property taxes.

After two-years of investigation, the commission also recommended raising federal aid for schools from about $4 billion annually to between about $9 billion and $12 billion through the use of incentive grants to those states that increase their spending on education.

"We are not recommending a specific method (to shift to full state financing)." the panel said in a 147-page final report to Predident Nixon.

"Nor did we feel it appropriate to offer recommendations affecting national tax policy, including among other things, new revenue sources such as the value added tax."

Operational costs for the nation's public schools are estimated at $43.3 billion this year. Local governments, mainly through property taxes, now provide 52 per cent of the costs. The states contribute 41 per cent and the federal government 7 per cent.

McElroy told reporters at the White House that the commission made no recommendation on how the states should raise the money to finance their schools. But he said it could be through a state-wide property tax, sales tax, income tax, or a combination of all three.

McElroy said the commission did not take the controversial issue of busing into consideration in its deliberations. He said members preferred to "get the quality evened out...then the incentive for busing would be reduced."

The commission also recommended that government agencies "seriously consider additional and more substantive forms of assistance" to parochial and other non-public schools.

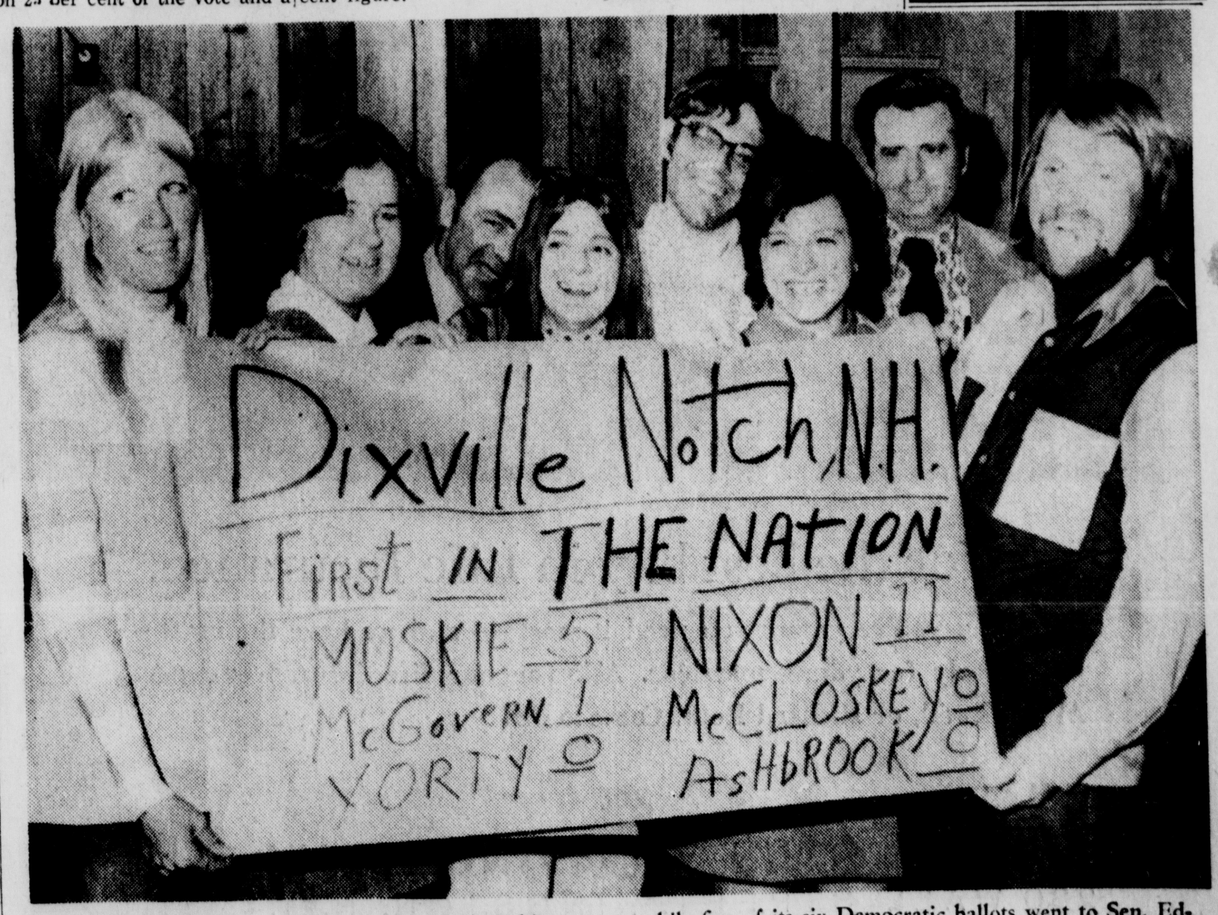

It noted that food, health services, transportation, loans of publicly owned textbooks and library resources should be provided to financially insecure private and parochial institutions. The commission further recommended that all government agencies should consider other forms of assistance to private schools, such as tax deductions for tuition, tuition reimbursement, scholarship aid and tax credits.

The commission also said that the federal government should provide incentives to help both public and private schools initiate early childhood education programs, starting at age 4.

The commission's report also urged an additional outlay of $1 billion to help inner city schools. Federal grants, aimed at reducing the gap in educational quality between inner city schools and suburban schools, should be used to replace old school buildings, hire new school personnel such as teacher aides and train special teachers for remedial work. The commission said the cost of such a program to the federal government would be $1 billion a year, with the city schools providing another $250 million.

McElroy said that "our country's chance to survive will all but disappear" if citizens fail to recognize that the nation's school systems are "in serious trouble."

While the panel's recommendations were being released, Nixon was attending a 75-minute meeting with his Cabinet committee on school busing. Nixon is expected to hold more meetings before taking a stand on the busing issue.

FIRST RESULTS—Dixville Notch, New Hampshire, a snowbound resort hamlet near the Canadian border, was the first town to report in the nation's initial primary and its 11 GOP voters stood solidly behind President Nixon while five of its six Democratic ballots went to Sen. Edmund Muskie. The sixth went to Sen. George S. McGovern. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Kleindienst Testifies Again for Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Senate committee asked Attorney General-designate Richard G. Kleindienst for testimony today in its investigation of charges the Justice Department settled an antitrust suit in exchange for $400,000 to help underwrite the Republican National Convention.

But the key witness in the case, Lobbyist Dita Beard of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., remained in a Denver hospital, and her physician said Senate investigators would not be allowed to question her if there was a chance it would "cause her more stress."

"We don't base our statements on what they think back in Washington or what their problems are," Dr. David Garland said. "All we are thinking about is what's best for the patient. We cannot, in good faith or practice, expect to subject her to interviews during her stay."

The physician said Mrs. Beard, 53, was suffering from a heart condition. She has been identified by columnist Jack Anderson as the writer of a memorandum June 25 which linked out-of-court settlement of an antitrust suit against ITT with an offer from an ITT subsidiary of contributions up to $400,000 to help the Republicans stage their national convention in San Diego in August.

Mrs. Beard's private physician, Dr. Victor Liszka of Arlington, Va., told the Senate Judiciary Committee Monday that Mrs. Beard told him she was "just mad and disturbed" when she wrote the memo.

"She definitely stated that there was no connection between the convention going to San Diego and the settlements," Liszka testified. "She stated she didn't mean to imply things she seemed to imply in that memo."

Liszka said Mrs. Beard had suffered from "irrational and distorted" behavior for four years. He said her condition resulted from a heart blockage that reduced the flow of blood to the brain.

The Justice Department last year filed suit to block ITT's proposed merger with the Hartford Life Insurance Co. However, the department later dropped its suit, allowing an out-of-court settlement and the largest merger in U.S. corporate history.

In the memorandum, Mrs. Beard contended the $400,000 gift to the Republicans "has gone a long way toward our negotiations on the mergers eventually coming out as (ITT president Harold Geneen) Hal wants them."

Liszka said the anger Mrs. Beard referred to apparently stemmed from a confrontation she had with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell in Louisville, Ky., during the Kentucky Derby celebration last May. He said that at that time Mrs. Beard approached Mitchell at a party about ITT's financial troubles resulting from the antitrust suit.

"I just had a dressing down by the attorney general such as I never received in my life," Liszka quoted Mrs. Beard as saying. She said the attorney general told her she was going through "improper channels," Liszka said.

Anderson has contended in his column that Mitchell, who is managing President Nixon's campaign for re-election, dressed down Mrs. Beard because she had been lobbying in Congress to win a favorable settlement for ITT, and Mitchell warned her to go through him.

Both Mitchell and Kleindienst have denied any knowledge of the contribution. Kleindienst told the committee last week he met with ITT officials four times last year prior to the settlement.

In other developments:

—Anderson said in Boston he believed ITT planned to throw Mrs. Beard "to the wolves." He said he had learned from a "very good source" that ITT would offer Mrs. Beard a substantial pension if she would "just behave" and hold her tongue "a little."

—In Boston, the Sheraton Corp. of America, a subsidiary of ITT, denied it pledged $400,000 to underwrite the GOP National Convention. A company spokesman said, however, the firm did "agree to support the San Diego Civil Committee in the amount of $100,000 and also (was) willing to offer an additional $100,000, but only on a 'matching basis'—if it were needed."

—In Sacramento, California Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., a Democrat, requested a federal grand jury investigation of the alleged $400,000 contribution.

MIG Downed in Largest Dogfight Since 1968

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Navy Phantom shot down a slow-moving MIG17 jet in a five-minute dogfight over North Vietnam Monday, but Radio Hanoi said Communist gunners shot down two U.S. planes with antiaircraft fire.

The dogfight, which one U.S. source said was the largest in Indochina since the cutback in the air war in 1968, took place over Quan Lang Airfield midway between Hanoi and the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

The U.S. refused to say how many U.S. planes took part in the fight but a spokesman said F4s, A6s and A7s participated. Informed sources said about eight U.S. planes were involved —half of them F4 fighter-bombers.

The Communist aircraft included four Mig17s and one Mig21, a much faster later model, the U.S. Command said.

The U.S. Command also refused comment on the Radio Hanoi report that two American planes were downed but such information is normally withheld until rescue operations are completed.

The Communist broadcast said the planes were shot down in Nghe An Province—the same general area where the dogfight took place. Nghe An is the late Communist leader of Ho Chi Minh's home province. The broadcast also said three other U. S. planes were shot down earlier this month.

Credited with shooting down the Mig was Navy Lt. Garry Weigand of Columbis, Ohio, and his navigator, Lt. (JG) Bill Freckleton of Huntington Beach, Calif. A spokesman for the 7th Fleet said the men were flying off the carrier Coral Sea which is on station in the Gulf of Tonkin.

No U.S. planes were damaged in the dogfight and the MIG was the fourth North Vietnamese jet shot down by U.S. planes since Jan. 19.

However, seven U.S. planes have been shot down by antiaircraft fire in the same period.

U.S. military sources said the dogfight started when Communist gunners and the Soviet-built jets attacked an unarmed Navy RF8 reconnaissance plane and its escorts.

The Navy F4s fired six air-to-air missiles at the MIGs and the Communist jets fired at least two missiles at the U.S. planes, a command communique said.

"One MIG was shot down and observed to have crashed into a hillside," the statement said.

The Phantoms travel at 1,600 miles per hour and the MIG21s at 1,320 m.ph. The MIG17, a Korean war vintage jet, flies at only 656 m.p.h.

Sources said U.S. aircraft made six "protective reaction" strikes against North Vietnamese antiaircraft sites Monday and one was reported destroyed. Results of the other strikes were unknown.

Clark Conducts Harrisburgh Cross Testimony

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Ramsey Clark, the former attorney general once called a "jellyfish" by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, lead off today with cross-examination of a former convict who turned FBI informant against the Harrisburg Seven.

The government's star witness, Boyd F. Douglas Jr., ended six days of direct testimony Monday with the disclosure that it was not until after Hoover's Nov. 27, 1970, Congressional testimony about an alleged plot by the seven antiwar activists that they began suspecting him.

Then, said the 31-year-old convicted forger, Sister Elizabeth McAlister became "quite paranoid" in accusing him of being a trusted member of the group who had informed the FBI of their plot to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Rev. Phillip F. Berrigan and six other vigorous opponents of the Vietnam war are accused of plotting during most of 1970 to abduct President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser, dynamite the heating ducts of Washington federal buildings and vandalize draft boards.

Clark, one of seven defense attorneys, has sharply questioned in previous cross-examination the government's motive in prosecuting the group. Six of them are present or former priests and nuns of the Roman Catholic Left.

Clark was Attorney General in the Johnson Administration. When he criticized some FBI practices in a book after leaving office, Hoover called him a "jellyfish."

Berrigan, the alleged leader of the group, was an inmate along with Douglas in Lewisburg Penitentiary that year. Douglas has testified he carried the written and oral messages in and out of prison for Berrigan dealing with the conspiracy.

He gave copies of all messages to the FBI, he testified, but the Bureau turned down in October, 1970, the $50,000 price tag he put on his services. He said he got "several hundred" dollars for expenses and $1,500 for information delivered about a Rochester, N.Y., draft board raid.

Senate Working on Boost In National Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate's deciding today whether to couple a boost in the national debt ceiling to $450 billion with a limit on how much the government can spend in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield predicted the outcome would be "very close" in the vote on a spending limit plan introduced by Sen. W William V. Roth, R-Del., and cosponsored by half the Senate's 100 members.

Roth tacked his rider on a House-passed bill to hike the limit on the national debt to $450 billion. The permanent ceiling now is $400 billion, and a temporary $30 billion increase runs out June 30.

The Administration asked that the ceiling be raised to $480 billion through mid-1973, but the House and Senate Finance Committee decided it would be better to increase the limit only through this June and consider a further increase later.

A huge budget deficit—perhaps as much as $40 billion —has been predicted for the current fiscal year.

Saugerties Board Sets Meeting On Possible Library Finance Crisis

SAUGERTIES — A meeting between trustees of the Saugerties Public Library and members of the Saugerties Village Board will be held March 27 in the wake of reports that the library's financial stability may be affected by a reduction in funding from the Saugerties Central School District.

The library's financial situation was discussed at length at Monday's Village Board meeting.

In recent years, the Village has paid 25 per cent of the operating expenses of the Washington Avenue Library with the school district funding the other 75 per cent. With the village's appropriation this year expected to total $7,000, the school district would apparently be asked for $21,000 to keep the library open.

But library trustees said Monday that the school district may reduce its allotment to the library this year.

The village is expected to earmark more funds for the library in its next budget, but the feeling at Monday's meeting appeared to be that village residents were already paying more than their share, through both village and school taxes. As a result, it was urged that the Town of Saugerties assist in the funding othe library.

Town and school officials have also been invited to attend the March 27 meeting. The village has maintained and operated the library building since 1956.

Meanwhile, Mayor Cornelius M. Cox announced plans to repaint the library's interior, and to install a sump pump in the library's basement to collect water seepage.

In other matters discussed Monday night, the Village Board approved a two year contract with the Saugerties Police Department, effective June 1, 1971 through May 31, 1973. Patrolmen are members of Teamster Local 445.

Prior to the signing of the contract Monday night, the board approved one addition to the mediated contract, but refused another. At the request of Frank Carter, representing Local 445, the Board agreed to pay salary increases to policemen retroactively from Nov. 15, 1971 in accordance with wage freeze specifications.

But a Local 445 request that policemen be permitted to review their personal files, and to either approve or appeal any items included in the files, was rejected by the Village Board, which maintained that an employer has a right to keep a private file on his employes, and that the matter was not discussed during negotiations.

In other matters, a contract was awarded to Ralph Herman Co. of Marlboro for the purchase of a $16,138 street sweeper.

It was announced that a meeting between village and town officials will be held Monday at 8 p.m. to discuss plans for the Barclay Heights Sewer District.

Only One Volunteer For Area Town Study

TOWN OF KINGSTON — Only one person who signed a petition in February requesting that the Kingston Town Board establish recreation facilities in the northern section of the township volunteered to serve on a committee to investigate that possibility.

Fifty-seven persons signed the original petition in February. Supervisor Kenneth Whispell said at Monday's Town Board meeting that only one of the petitioners has volunteered to serve on a special committee to locate a suitable site for a recreation area.

Once a feasible proposal is submitted, Whispell said the Town Board will hold a public hearing to discuss the possibilities of a recreation area for the northern section of the town.

In other matters, Councilman Dominick Petramale reported that the town's standing Recreation Committee is still searching for suitable playground equipment for the town's existing recreation park. He said he hopes to have some playground equipment installed by this summer.

An application to operate a mobile home park was received from Arnold Homes, Inc. and was referred to the ordinance committee for study.

A resolution authorizing the purchase of a six ton roller for the Highway Department was unanimously approved for a price of $995.

A grievance day for tax assessment purposes will be held June 20 from 6-10 p. m. at the Town Hall.

Justice Richard Alberstadt, chairman of the ordinance committee, said that his committee is awaiting the recommendations of the Planning Board for possible changes in the sub-division laws and trailer park ordinances. A joint meeting between the Town Board and Planning Board will be held to discuss the recommendations.

Peekskill Girl Dies in Auto Mishap, Struck by Ulster Driver on Route 9

PEEKSKILL — An 18-year-old girl was killed instantly at 7:10 p.m. Monday, when she reportley was hit by a car operated by John Ecker, 26, of Boiceville Road, Boiceville, Ulster County. The accident occured on Route 9 near Peekskill.

City Police identified the victim as Marie Edwards of 1455 Lincoln Terrace, an 11th grade student at Peekskill High School. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Deputy County Medical Examiner Dr. Frank Ryan, who was in the line of traffic on Route 9 at the time the girl was killed.

Authorities said the girl was walking on the southbound lane of the heavily traveled highway near the center double white line when she was hit. Police reported the driver of an unidentified vehicle ahead of the Ecker car swerved to avoid the pedestrian and she was hit by the left front fender of the Ulster County man's vehicle.

Police had not determined whether the other car also hit the student. Investigators also did not know why the girl was walking on the highway near the Franklin Street overhead bridge at the time she was hit.

No charges were filed against Ecker, authorities noted.

Another highway fatality was reported by Middletown State Police who investigated the mishap that occurred at 9:30 p.m. Monday on Route 211 one mile east of Scotchtown Road in the Orange County community of Wallkill.

Troopers said Jack Page, 50, of R.D. 2, Middletown, was driving in a westerly direction on the highway when his car veered off the right side of the pavement and as he overcorrected the course of the sedan it crossed the highway and slammed into a utility pole.

Authorities reported an autopsy was to be performed today at Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown.

Red Hook Village Board Hears Words of Advice

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK — John "Jack" Gilfeather had a few words of advice for the Red Hook Village Board of Trustees Monday night as he attended his last regular meeting as a trustee after eight continuous years of service.

Gilfeather has been closely related to the now computerized water billing system, putting that into effect a year ago, and with the advent of cable television to the northern Dutchess area, acting as chairman of the five municipality committee that worked out the final agreement with Kingston Cablevison.

Concerning the water department, Gilfeather advocated continuation of the computerized billing as he saw "many benefits" in the system, which is on a contract basis with the City of Poughkeepsie.

And he advised that the board have its revised rate schedule for mobile homes worked out "before the end of the year." He said he would have some suggestions by the time he left the Board at the end of this month. There are two mobile home parks in the village serviced by village water, totalling about 60 units.

And concerning CATV, Gilfeather suggested to Mayor Robert Bowman that the five municipalities organize a grievance committee, with floating chairmanship, to concern itself with future questions that will arise with the franchise. The company is still stringing cable and has made hookups to homes in Rhinebeck and Red Hook.

In other business, the Board authorized the borrowing of $3,870 in series bonds for a five-year term to pay for work already accomplished on the Martin property and streets.

The bonds were asked for by Trustee Fred Cotting. He also noted that the village dump truck had just been paid off.

Trustee Miller Magley told the Board that, in response to citizen requests, the police department had been conducting night patrols between the hours of 2:30-8 a.m. and will continue to do this on a trial basis part time through the month of March. A series of burglaries lately prompted these requests.

Clerk Francis Rabbett pointed to March 21 from noon to 9 p.m. as election day at the Grange Hall, 10 Prince Street. All three candidates for the two seats were present at the meeting.

Rabbett said that water serial bonds in the amount of $8,780 had been approved by the Board in special session to "defray the cost of reconstruction" and some changes in the water system.

A report from the joint town-village recreation commission said that it hoped to expand its 1972-73 winter program, but did not think it would need additional monies. Magley praised the group for getting the most out of every dollar.

Trustee James Melley commended the street workers for the "best job yet" in clearing the business district after the recent heavy snowfalls, and noted there had been some heavy flooding.

Bowman proclaimed the week of March 12-18 as Girl Scout Week, as recommended by Red Hook Girl Scouts.

And a tax sale for two parcels was noted for March 7 at 2 p.m.

Where you retire in the winter - -

—depends on where you save in the summer.

Ellenville Patrolman's Attorneys Walk Out on Hearing

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE — The Ellenville Village Board held the departmental hearing Monday concerning the charges against suspended Ellenville Patrolman Carl B. Mayer, but neither Mayer nor his counsel were present at the close of the proceedings, and no decision was reached.

Mayer never came. His counsel, Ellenville attorneys Herbert and Irving Weinsoff, were there at the start, but they left early, Herbert Weinsoff charging the hearing was a "Star Chamber" proceeding, a reference to secret hearings held in 15th century England.

The Weinsoffs' contention was the village had no rules and regulations governing the hearing, and without rules and regulations, there could be no legal hearing.

The village of Ellenville had no departmental rules and regulations formally adopted by the village board until Feb. 24 of this year, when they were adopted at an executive session, according to Ellenville Mayor Robert Dowling and Police Chief William C. Trapnell.

Mayer, and suspended Patrolmen Ronald K. Krom and Anthony Yerkes, received suspension prior to that date; Mayer and Krom were suspended Feb. 7 after their arrest by State Police for third degree rape, and Yerkes was suspended shortly afterward. No criminal charges have been filed against Yerkes. The rape charges against Mayer and Krom have been dismissed.

Herbert Weinsoff repeatedly demanded a copy of the rules of procedure for the hearing. Trustee Walter Grey, who chaired the hearing, repeatedly said the village was proceeding under Section 75 of the Civil Service Law. That wasn't good enough for Weinsoff, who said the village had not complied with Sections 188 E and F of the Village Law, or Section 891 of the Unconsolidated Law.

Weinsoff asked the board "By what authority do you sit?" He did not get an answer that satisfied him, and the Weinsoffs packed their papers and law books, and left the hearing.

Village Attorney Alex J. Nirenberg, who was presenting the evidence against Mayer, v'ewing the retreating backs of the Weinsoffs, said, "What would I look like if I lost this case without any opposition?"

He bagan presenting his evidence. On the witness stand, 16-year-old Debra Lee Decker testified she had sexual relations with Mayer Jan. 18, 1971, and State Police BCI Investigators Larry P. Grogan, Donald P. Trotta, and Michael J. Mahoney all testified Mayer admitted having sexual relations with the Decker girl.

Trapnell testified Mayer had refused to sign a statement concerning criminal behavior of a fellow officer, had failed to give the chief some Federal On The Job Training papers despite repeated requests, but he did not directly testify that Mayer had accused a fellow officer.

Nirenberg asked that Charge III against Mayer, that of accusing a fellow officer falsely, be dropped. He asked that Mayer be found guilty of the other charges; those are having sexual intercourse with a girl under the age of 17, failing to turn in evidence to the Police Chief concerning marijuana use by a fellow officer, and four counts of gross insubordination.

The next hearing will be Wednesday, when Yerkes' case will be examined.

SCENE OF BOMB EXPLOSION (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Belfast Shopping Center

Bomb Explodes in Department Store

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A bomb planted by four gunmen ripped "a hole the size of a bus" today in the floor of a department store just off downtown Belfast's main shopping avenue, the Army said. No injuries were reported.

An Army spokesman said the charge which made "a mess" out of part of the Co-op Store on York Street may have been one of several planted by the intruders.

The men broke into the five-story building, which spans two blocks, at about 3 a.m. They held the night watchman at gunpoint while they fanned out through the darkened store. Then they fled, warning the watchman to "get the hell out of here if you know what's good for you."

Moments later the bomb went off. "It ripped a hole the size of a bus in the floor, which is steel-reinforced concrete," an Army spokesman said.

He said troops were sealing off the area "for at least 12 hours. We have no idea how many unexploded bombs are still inside. But we can take no risks."

The store's sprinkler system damped down a fire in the paint department touched off by the blast. But four hours later smoke was still pouring out through openings in the roof.

The blast followed by little more than 12 hours a powerful explosion which demolished a downtown automobile rental firm and damaged Belfast's newest luxury hotel and a nearby movie theater.

At about the same time, a bomb in Londonderry wrecked the Ardown Hotel in Northland Road, police said.

Earlier in the evening, a part-time soldier drove two intruders from his home with a blast from his double-barreled shotgun, thwarting an apparent assassination attempt.

The Army, which withheld the man's name for security reasons—said he was a member of the paramilitary Ulster Defense Regiment (UDR), a consistent target for extremist gunmen since enmity between majority Protestants and minority Roman Catholics flared into bloodshed in August, 1969.

Four UDR men have been among 57 persons killed this year. Two of them have died in the past week.

The Army said 56 persons were injured in the explosion outside the Simms Auto Rental firm on Grosvenor Road, Belfast. Most were treated for cuts and bruises, then released. Two persons remained hospitalized, but their condition was "not serious," an army spokesman said.

The explosion also blew out windows in the new concrete and glass Europa Hotel and damaged a nearby movie house. It followed an anonymous call to the theater saying a bomb had been planted not far away.

Later in the day, and in the same neighborhood, a 19-year-old youth was shot and seriously wounded as he strolled down Grosvenor Road. His condition at Royal Victoria Hospital was "very serious," the Army spokesman said.

Rockefeller Slams Door On Lindsay

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller's office, predictably, has slammed the door on Mayor John V. Lindsay's request for $800 million in increased state aid to balance New York City's budget.

Answering the annual dire warnings of mass layoffs of city employes and closings, State Budget Director Richard L. Dunham issued a statement Monday night dismissing the plan as "totally unrealistic."

The statement, plus previously announced opposition from legislative leaders, indicated continued home-state problems for Lindsay while he is off campaigning for president.

Of particular objection was the city's proposal to have the state provide the additional aid without a tax increase this year by temporary borrowing.

"This is totally unrealistic in the context of the state's desperate fiscal situation, which is well known to every citizen in the state," Dunham said. "These proposals would require enormous increases in state taxes by next year at the very latest."

Noting the state is already borrowing more than $400 million this year, Dunham said, "for the state to deficit finance at the level of an additional $1 billion next year, after having painfully put its own house in order, is as incredible a notion as has come to my attention this year.

"The city was advised by Governor Rockefeller of the state's inability to continue bailing it out before the beginning of the current fiscal year, at a time when it had every opportunity to rectify its fiscal situation.

"We have repeatedly warned local governments in this state that they must take whatever steps are necessary to achieve the fundamental economies which — together with federal revenue sharing, growth in existing sources of revenue, and utilization of authorized but unused local taxing powers—would enable them to balance their budgets without banking on large increases in state assistance."

The city is asking the legislature to substantially increase funds for schools, welfare and revenue sharing as a way of balancing the city's proposed $10 billion budget.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, R - Montauk, has also termed the plan "unrealistic."

Off to Kansas

And then there was one.

That sums up one of the most exciting weekends in local sports history as the Super Senators of Ulster County Community College captured their first Region XV tournament and earned a trip to the national championship at Hutchinson, Kansas.

In what coach Mike Perry describes as his greatest thrill, the Senators defeated Dutchess, Manhattan and Farmingdale in tournament action at New York City Community College to earn the right to compete with 15 other teams next week in the World Series of Junior College Basketball.

We offer our congratulations to the fiery Perry and his Super Senators. And we wish them well as they take their 27-2 record to Kansas to do battle with other great clubs from throughout the country. We know they will bring honor and prestige to Ulster County.

Quotas Not Needed

What a candidate for President won't do for votes! Senator Vance Hartke, Indiana Democrat who is candidate for his party's nomination, has introduced a bill which he says will protect jobs of American workers by curbing foreign imports and imposing heavy penalties on American firms putting their expansion money into foreign investments. It would put a rigid wall around American imports.

But what about American exports? Won't foreign governments bar them as we barred the handiwork of their workers? Unemployment is higher in industrial European nations than it is here. No self-respecting foreign country would stay idle if we tried to enforce such a law. Quotas or more would rain down and cut off our exports, or reduce them.

True, the Hartke bill has the support of AFL-CIO. By establishing quotas limited to the average annual quantities of goods imported into this country in the years from 1965 to 1969, it would mean an over-all cut of U. S. imports of 40 per cent. That would no doubt make jobs to produce replacement goods in this country. But the foreign countries would naturally retaliate. And 40 per cent of American exports would be cut, when we are trying to build them to mend our balance of trade.

This country went through that route in 1930. The Hawley-Smoot bill increased tariffs in 890 categories, at rates ranging from 38.10 per cent to 48.92 per cent on agricultural products, and from 31.02 per cent to 34.31 per cent on manufactured goods. In retaliation, foreign markets were shut to us. Many believe that Hawley-Smoot was a major cause of the Great Depression which followed shortly after.

What we need are not quotes but self-curbs. We need to curb our infatuation with foreign goods. The public can reduce foreign imports just by curbing its desire for them and there will be no reprisal. It need not go as far as the "Buy American" campaigns of other days, just a personal commitment to give native products a chance, not to prefer imports because they're foreign-made. That should make jobs, solid ones.

"PAPER TIGRESSES"—Calling Republican women who will run against incumbent Democrat members of Congress "paper tigresses," Representative Bella Abzug said the real test of getting more women legislators is supporting Republican women candidates in traditionally Republican districts. True, but the idea is to gain new seats, not displace old ones.

MOON'S BACKSIDE — Lieutenant Colonel Alfred M. Worden, who was the Apollo 15 command module pilot last summer, gave some children this description of the backside of the moon: "It's lumpy like popcorn." And of the visible side of the moon: "It's smooth like chocolate pudding." Worden's a wonderful teacher—the kids won't ever forget that.

The High Cost of Protection

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department, which has been accused of dropping the prosecution of three antitrust cases against International Telephone and Telegraph in return for a contribution of up to $400,000 to the Republican convention, will be dipping into the U.S. Treasury for another $500,000 to help police the convention.

The money will go to train and equip San Diego police for the GOP gala. They will be provided everything from sophisticated electronic devices and smarting pepper gases to special knee-kockers to bring down hippies.

To be sure, the huge array of armor and armaments can be stockpiled for later use if the San Diego affair should be peaceful. But the grant from Justice's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration will be clearly and explicitly marked for the Republican convention.

A lesser amount of $395,000 has been earmarked for the protection of the Democrats. Yet the Democratic donnybrook is expected to attract more troublemakers, just as the Democrats in bloody Chicago most needed protection in 1968.

The law under which the two cities are getting the grant is written to permit the federal government to keep title to much of the equipment. With fore-planning, therefore, some of the police hardware purchases could be used in Miami, then shipped across the country to San Diego at considerable savings for the taxpayers.

The Democrats are also getting short-changed on another convention service provided by the taxpayers. Last October, the General Services Administration (GSA) offered to assist both the Democrats and Republicans with the care and security of government officials at the conventions.

Since the Republicans have all the government officials, with the exception of some federal agents who will be on hand in Miami beach, it's the GOP that benefits from the GSA offer.

The GSA has confirmed to us that the White House's Bill Timmons has requested furnishings for executive offices at San Diego. So the GSA is busily hustling desks, chairs, smoke stands, copying machines and even a paper shredder in case Henry Kissinger or Defense Secretary Mel Laird shows up with a batch of secret papers they want to keep out of our hands.

Tax Favoritism

A group of young crusaders, who are bringing pressure upon corporations to put people ahead of profits, has been trying unsuccessfully for 18 months to get a tax exemption.

Meanwhile, a pro-business group, whose avowed aim is to "increase profits" for big corporations, has obtained its tax exempt status without difficulty.

The youths, organized by Ralph Nader, are best known for their "Campaign GM," which sought unsuccessfully to elect public-interest spokesmen to General Motors' board.

Since GM deducted the millions it spent to fight "Campaign GM," the Nader crusaders thought they should get a tax exemption to carry their side of the fight. They applied in September 1970.

They are still waiting.

There were few real delays, however, for the National Dividend Foundation, which is plumping for a constitutional amendment to make stock dividends tax-free.

The foundation's president, John Perry, makes its purpose perfectly clear. "It is geared to increase profits," he told us.

It may be only a coincidence, but his advisory board includes Elmer Bobst, the honorary chairman of the Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., who is a heavy Republican contributor and a personal benefactor of President Nixon. The President has referred to Bobst as his second father.

Nader's group has no big-name Republicans on the board. Whatever the reasons, the IRS has given a break to an organization aimed at making corporations more profitable, while withholding the same treatment from one trying to make them more responsible.

We Won't Do It Again

When President Nixon flew to San Diego this past January to announce some $55 million in new shipbuilding contracts for the National Steel and Shipbuilding Company, he neglected to tell his audience that this same company had less than a year ago been cited for over 70 violations of the Labor Department's safety and health regulations.

National Steel signed a consent order, which says in effect that they didn't do it, but they won't do it anymore, on April 23, 1971.

A Labor spokesman said, however, that the company "has been inspected a number of times since, but we have found no serious violations."

Peace Blueprint

WASHINGTON — Now that the United States has sent emissaries to various governments in Asia to explain the meaning of the joint communique covering the conferences between the Peking government and the President of the United States, it is interesting to note that there has been no adverse result.

In their informal discussions, American officials have dealt with many points that have attracted attention in the Asian countries. Thus, for instance, it was observed that the Mainland Chinese did not request that the Defense Treaty which the United States has with Taiwan be abrogated or that diplomatic relations with Nationalist China be terminated. The governments which have been interviewed by American envoys understand that there is no intention to change the Taiwan situation at present. The American forces on that island will, of course, be reduced as our troops in Vietnam are gradually pulled out.

In the communique, the United States promised eventual withdrawal of its soldiers from Taiwan when tensions are relaxed. Some day, when the leaders in Taiwan and Peking get together, the time will come for a recognition of the removal of those tensions.

Marshal Green, Assistant U. S. Secretary of State, who was in Taipei last Friday to reassure Nationalist China of continued American support, said that his mission "was successful for both sides." The Nationalist Foreign Ministry issued a statement that it had received "a further understanding of the clarifications and assurances" of the United States and indicated that the Taiwan government is satisfied with these.

There is a belief here that one of the effects of the Peking conference is that the Soviet leaders may have noted particularly this declaration in the communique: "Both sides are of the view that it would be against the interests of the peoples of the world for any major country to collude with another against other countries, or for major countries to divide up the world into spheres of interest."

The foregoing may be the beginning of a long-range effort to do away with alliances and military commitments that have hitherto resulted in international entanglements. It would not be surprising ultimately to find no American ground troops anywhere in Asia but perhaps a naval fleet present in Pacific waters.

Certainly arms-control agreements are often talked about, but few of them are made. If the Vietnam war is ended and all military forces of the United States are withdrawn from Asia, the expectation would be that the major powers would not maintain large standing armies in other areas, since the whole emphasis would be on a peaceful set-up.

As the nations are reassured concerning America's intentions to pull back its troops when tensions are relaxed in Asia, surely there will be an effort made to do the same with respect to the soldiers that have been kept in Europe, too President Nixon's hope is that action of this kind will be taken not only by the government of Peking but by the governments in Moscow and other world capitals so that Asia and Europe need no longer be regarded as potential territory for big powers to seize.

The problems of such countries as Vietnam and Korea may come before tribunals designated to find a way to give each area the independence it seeks and to provide freedom, along with pledges that no nation will be subjected to interference as it tries to live its own life.

President Nixon is determined that the future should be devoted to a discussion of methods of securing peace and maintaining it. He believes that whatever he has accomplished at Peking and may succeed in getting the Soviet Union to undertake with him can contribute to an era of peace. This would mean closer relations between peoples, help to improve living conditions in underdeveloped countries, and give the advanced nations a chance to find wider markets for their manufactured products.

The President has focused attention not on alliances for war but on commercial relations and economic achievements that can provide widespread benefits around the world.

Bruce Biossat Says

A Plethora of Democrats

MIAMI (NEA) — The Democrats in 1972 have become so enamored of "Openess" in the presidential political process that they are in danger of putting us all to sleep with free expression.

They've reformed presidential nominating procedures so that just about anybody who can get some money can run for the big job. And that, in some measure, is what we're getting: just about anybody.

Only a few times in our history have we seen such a deluge of candidates. It's as if a lot of people in the Democratic Party felt that only by the magic of numbers could they prove their openness. But choosing a president is a quest for quality. An insistence upon quantity could swamp the thing out.

In the early primaries of 1972, I find the quantity of candidates have a strangely dissipating effect. Here in Florida, as in New Hampshire, there is a sense of emptiness in the presence of many.

Not long ago, I heard a sort of debate among some of the candidates in New Hampshire. I had to remind myself repeatedly that I was not listening to a battle for the county clerk's job. Mediocrity was rampant.

In Florida, voter interest is intense in the question of busing to foster racial integration in schools. A referendum on the issue will be held concurrently with the March 14 presidential primary balloting.

Yet, when more than 10 candidates' voices are raised on such a complex, controversial subject, few voters can keep track of what any of them think.

That's why Alabama's Gov. George Wallace is reinforcing his clear lead in the Florida primary. He doesn't have to say a word.

Everybody knows where he stands on busing.

There is no proper way, of course, to argue against the openness in the presidential selection process. It is obviously a desirable goal, and the evident achievement of it by the Demorcratic Party is commendable.

But Democrats are overreacting in their emotional revulsion against the cramped choosing process which helped convert their 1968 convention at Chicago into a debacle. They are smothering us with their proofs of reform.

I walked along the sand at Miami Beach as aides to Sen. George McGovern passed out campaign brochures. The sunning oldsters, playing cards under palm fronds, were friendly enough. Still, there was this recurring theme:

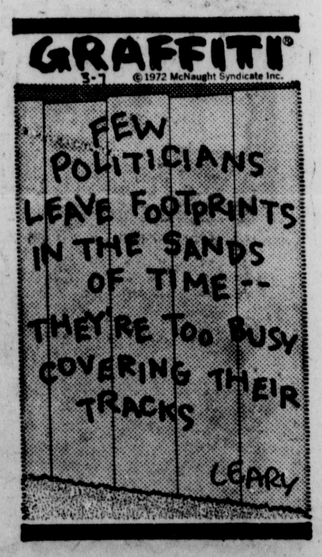

"Too many candidates . . . they're all alike."

They're not at all alike, but they do tend to merge in the mind as one. In one hour I saw 30-second or 60-second televison "spots" for four Democrats entered in the March 14 test. In the final days, this will be a flood. It could be the start of the last hurrah for this long favored campaign device. It's been fading, anyway, since its overuse in the 1968 presidential battle.

Plainly, nobody can tell aspirants they can't run. What we need is some good old-fashioned self-restraint in the use of privilege. It's too late for that this time. Only ruthless rejection of also-rans at the polls will narrow the roster in 1972.

In the meantime, pity the poor voter as he thumbs the list:

Muskie, Wallace, Shirts, Humphrey, Pajamas, McGovern, Hartke, Socks, Lindsay, Chisholm, Handkerchiefs . . .

Mayor Asks Help On Pothole Dilemma

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig has asked the public's cooperation to help the city fight an annual menace that came early this year: potholes in the streets.

"In addition to slippery conditions in some sections of the city" Koenig said today, "the weather has been playing havoc with the city streets. Last week's unusual rise in temperature and thawing and then the immediate drop in temperature thereafter has created some serious eruptions in sections of the city's streets and created potholes where they never existed before."

"Even though the men of the Department of Public Works are filling in the potholes as fast as possible, I would appreciate the general public advising either my office or the public works department of any potholes which they may come across in their travels so that immediate steps may be taken to correct these conditions."

Koenig also said he would contact urban renewal contractors working on Clinton Avenue and on Washington Avenue at North Front and Lucas Avenue to continually maintain their projects.

"My office will endeavor to keep these inconveniences at a minimum and requests the cooperation of the general public in observance of winter driving conditions," Koenig concluded.

Firemen Quell Blaze

KINGSTON

Fire in a car parked at 38 East St. James Street Monday afternoon was quelled by firemen from Engines 2 and 4 who used pressurized water.

The units were dispatched to the scene at 5:28 p.m. in charge of Captain Francis T. Argulewicz. The fire damage was confined to the front seat cushion and back rest. The 1966 car was owned by Delores Bishop of 188 Ten Broeck Avenue, and was operated prior to the fire by John Wolfe. The cause of the blaze was not determined.

City URA Will Award Tree Bids

KINGSTON

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will meet tonight to award contracts for the planting of 168 trees in its two projects, following Monday's bid openings.

T. H. Andersen Landscape Company Inc. of Gardiner was the apparent low bidder. Bids were submitted on two alternates, one for trees from two to two and a half inches in diameter and one for trees from three to three and a half inches in diameter. Andersen was the apparent low bidder on both alternatives, offering to plant the smaller trees for $12,947.60 and the larger ones for $22,374.20. Ten bids were received with the high bid coming from Rosedale Nursery of Millbrook at $24,938 for the smaller trees and $34,608 for the lagrer ones.

Four kinds of trees will be planted: pin oak, London plane, honey locus and maple. They will be planted on Converse Street in the Uptown Project and on both sides of Broadway in the Broadway East Project and also on the north side of Ferry Street, in the Rondout Creek Park and on Newkirk Avenue.

The planting period is from April 1 to May 15.

Dutchess Turnout Is Light

RED HOOK

Registration turnouts have been termed "light" in northern Dutchess villages for the off-year balloting March 21.

Only two village trustee positions are up for re-election in each village, with no mayoralty contests.

It was the first time the 18-21 year old age group was eligible to register for village elections, but only six such persons were added to the rolls in Red Hook with but one joining up in Tivoli.

There are but two candidates for the two spots in Rhinebeck, and voting is therefore expected to be extremely light this year.

But there are alternatives in both Red Hook and Tivoli. James Melley and newcomer running mate Thomas McTighe are seeking the Red Hook trustee spots with another challenger, Myrtle Townsend, adding a third demension to the race.

And in Tivoli, two middle-aged incumbents, William Bain and William Herdman, are being challenged by 23-year-old Richard Simmons for a trustee seat.

There were a total of 29 new registrants in Red Hook from Saturday's signup and fewer than nine in Tivoli. But the election roll dropped from 782 last year to 758 this year in Red Hook, despite a slow population growth, while it jumped from 377 last year to 402 this year in Tivoli.

Those persons who voted in the last village election did not have to re-register.

Addonizio Surrenders

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Former Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio surrendered Monday to U.S. marshals who will take him today to the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., to begin serving a 10-year sentence for extortion.

Addonizio, 57, surrendered along with Anthony LaMorte, former Newark public works director, and Joseph Biancone, alleged organized crime figure.

All three were sentenced to 10 years imprisonment following their conviction in 1970 on charges of conspiring to extort $253,000 from firms doing business with the city. Testimony at the trial indicated about $1 million actually was extorted.

The three remained free on bond during the past 19 months pending outcome of appeals which reached to the U.S. Supreme Court. The nation's high court rejected the appeals Feb. 22.

After surrendering at the federal courthouse here, the three men were held overnight at a dentention center.

Addonizio, father of six children, served seven terms as a congressman and then two terms as mayor.

Two Men Arrested On License Charge

KINGSTON

Two men arrested Monday as the result of an alleged attempt by one of the pair to obtain a motor vehicle operator's license for a third man.

Ralph Mergendahl, 29, of Rondout Gardens, was charged with making false statements as he tried to obain the license. Joseph Banks, 36, of Creek Locks, Box 65, Rosendale, was cited for conspiracy fourth degree.

Both men posted $100 bail pending disposition of the charges in City Court. It was reported that a John Doe warrant has been issued for the arrest of a third man.

According to information of complaint at police headquarters, Mergendahl allegedly represented himself as James J. Avery when he took a road test at the Dietz Stadium. Later his identity became known as he tried to get the license at the Motor Vehicle Bureau, authorities noted.

The charge against Banks alleges he had knowledge of the Mergendahl plan when he permitted the man to use his car for the road test. The arrests were made by police and David Gardner, an examiner of the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

She Let Husband Write Own Ticket...and WOW!

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 23 years and have five children. The youngest is 13.

He has had other women over the years but nothing he couldn't stop. I thought he was thru running around when I found out he had a full-time girl friend. He wanted a separation and moved out.

I was so miserable and lonely, I called him up and told him if he would come home he could write his own ticket.

He came home, has been here two weeks, and I am more miserable than ever because he visits his girl friend every other day.

Abby, I can't live up to my agreement. I love my husband and don't want to lose him. He says if he moves out again it will be for good.

I have tried to make our sex life extra good and his home life extra pleasant since he's been back, but I get so depressed when he goes out. What should I do?

ALONE AGAIN

DEAR ALONE: That "ticket" you let him write entitles him to a free out-of-this-world trip, which could last a lifetime. Only you can decide if you are more miserable with this setup than you were without him, and act accordingly. In the meanwhile he's having his cake and eating it, too. And he'll be lucky if all that cake doesn't kill him.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I recently read an interesting letter in your column about shoplifting.

One woman said she would not report a shoplifter if she saw one because unless she could provide evidence to support her accusation, she could be sued for slander. Abby, this is true but only if the accusation is made publicly.

However, if someone reports a shoplifter to a store employe or the security guard, there is never a problem of "involvement."

Stores can stay in business only if they operate at a profit, and in order to make up for what the shoplifters steal prices are climbing higher and higher. In plain language, it is the honest shopper who pays for all the stuff shoplifters steal.

I wish people would take their heads out of the sand and realize WHY all shoplifters should be reported.

MISSOURIAN

DEAR MISSOURIAN: In addition to which, the one with his head in the sand is in an ideal position to be kicked in the rear!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The letter about those people in Hartford who allowed their big slobbering dog to dominate an otherwise elegant dinner party, struck a familiar note.

I happen to be a dog lover, too, and own two oversized Irish Setters. My dogs are welcome to roam around inside my home most of the time. This I consider my business.

Fortunately I have enough sense to realize that not everyone loves dogs. Indeed I am aware that some people don't care for dogs at all. And some are even terrified of them, so when I entertain guests, my dogs are kept out of sight.

No one enjoys being met at his car by a barking, excited animal — not to mention sharing his dinner with it.

Animals require responsiblity, and their presence in many instances requires judgment, which unfortunately, is too rarely used.

And by the way, this goes for children, too!

DOG LOVER WITH HUMAN FRIENDS

DEAR LOVER: I'll bet you have more human friends than most dog lovers.

Saugerties Garden Club Meeting Set

Saugerties Society of Little Gardens will meet Wednesday, March 8 at Saugerties Methodist Church, Washington Avenue, at 1:30 p.m. The program will be Japanese Flower Arranging with Mrs. Everett Landers as speaker. The program is open to the public. Those wishing to attend should contact any member of the Society or the hostess, Mrs. Robert Finger of Saugerties.

The February 23 meeting took place at the home of Mrs. Gordon Keeley with Mrs. John Whritenor, president, presiding. A moment of silent prayer was held in memory of the Society's late president, Mrs. Morris Rosenblum.

Various reports were submitted including: constitution and by-laws and committee rules, Mrs. Roy Helmsmoortel, secretary; treasurer's report, Mrs. Robert Finger; program book, Mrs. Francis Lawless; memory trees, Mrs. Gordon Keeley.

Mrs. Whritenor announced the calendar of coming events which includes the Flower Show in New York, Mar. 10-13, Hotel New Yorker; Flower Show, Hartford, Conn., Mar. 28-Apr. 2; Saugerties Society of Little Gardens annual Flower Show, June 14; Ulster County Day, Nov. 2. The Steering Committee for the October Mum Festival has been organized and members of the society will assist.

Committee reports and thank-you notes were read. A letter of resignation from Mrs. Paul Schmitz was accepted with regret. Among the items of interest in the horticulture report was the fact that although the poinsettia is listed as a dangerous house plant, the apparent decrease in its toxicity is because it has gone through genetic manipulation and changed so that it is vastly different from its original stage.

Mrs. Hugo Knauert reported on the progress of the flower show. Notice of the event was sent to the Third District Digest. Theme for the Junior Division is "A Penny for your Thoughts." Rules include: Each exhibit must have been grown or made by the child who is entering it; horticulture exhibits must have been in the possession of the exhibitor for at least 45 days. JOHNNY WETS HIS BED...JOHNNY WETS HIS BED JOHNNY WETS HIS BED...JOHNNY

When children discover that a playmate wets his bed, the result can be merciless teasing and serious psychological problems.
The entire family can be affected. The cost and work of taking care of a bedwetting child can cause friction and irritability among parents.
It is quite possible that your child will EVENTUALLY outgrow bedwetting, but what happens until that time comes? Medical authorities have stated that a bedwetting child feels that he is a disgrace to his family. Statistics prove that a bedwetting child achieves below his real ability in school. And the child is embarrassed and ashamed.
But, now, bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Safely. Permanently.
Our method is endorsed by many doctors. Read their statements in our 16 page brochure: "Is There A Solution?" Also read what other people say who have had the same problem. Send this coupon for your free copy. No cost or obligation.

New Paltz, Cornwall Advance

MONROE-WOODBURY

With five Huguenots hitting double figures, New Paltz High surged ahead of Red Hook here Monday night in the second quarter and hung on to post an 87-75 victory in Tournament II of the Section 9 playoffs.

In the second game, the UCAL's Southern Division runnerup, Ellenville, was eliminated by a narrow 79-77 margin as Cornwall, No. 3 in the state, advanced to the semi-finals.

Rick Pesavento dumped in 23 points to pace the Hugies' attack with Mike Fairweather adding 17. But it was Jay Ackert who got the Northern Division champions rolling with a pair of baskets to overtake Red Hook.

Without their 6-4 center Kevin Kelly on the court, the Raiders couldn't mount enough firepower to stave off New Paltz. Dan Theberge got his 22 points, but Red Hook couldn't match the Hugies' balance.

"We worked for two weeks for this one," said Ellenville's Frank Muller, but the Blue Devils' coach wasn't totally glum about his team's tournament defeat. Ray Younger, a sharpshooter who played JV most of the season, sizzled for 23 points and game honors and fanned the hopes of next year in Ellenville.

Muller also cited the defensive play of Ricky Kaplan who drew the assignment on the Green Dragons' 6-9 Paul Berwanger.

Cornwall, undefeated after 19 games this season, is ranked third among the state's small schools but had all it could handle in Elenville. A close contest all the way, the Ellies' fast break kept the Dragons off balance.

"We couldn't get the layup on them," said Muller, "but we beat them down court before they could get their defense set up."

Valley Central is the site of Wednesday's semi-final encounter pitting the Huguenots against Cornwall. The winner will meet the victor of the Liberty-Highland Falls matchup in the finals Saturday at Ulster County Community College.

Western Ky. AD Won't Condemn Jim

BOWLING GREEN, KY. (UPI)—No one could blame John Oldham if he lashed out at Jim McDaniels in a bitter tirade, but instead the Western Kentucky Athletic Director said today he could not condemn the player whose actions cost him his crowning glory as coach.

Western was stripped Monday of its third-place finish in last year's national basketball championship tournament for unwittingly using McDaniels after the seven-foot giant purportedly signed a pro contract with the American Basketball Association.

Oldham moved up to athletic director at the end of last season with a feeling of fulfillment after guiding the Hilltoppers to their highest peak ever and compiling a 24-6 won-lost record.

But Oldham could not overlook the fact that Western might never have reached its lofty pinacle without McDaniels, the team's leading scorer with a 29.3 average.

"I'm not in a position to condone or condemn what Jim did," Oldham said, "It's a shame this had to happen. I blame the people who influenced him into signing the contract more than I do Jim. I believe he was misled into thinking what he did would cause no harm to his school."

Oldham said he has tried to reach his former star by telephone in Seattle, where McDaniels is now playing for the Supersonics.

"But they told me that he was not available to talk," Oldham said.

Although Western must forfeit its third-place trophy and its $66,318.80 share of receipts from the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament, the Hilltoppers still will be recognized as champions of the Ohio Valley Conference due to a league "statute of limitations."

Art Guepe, conference commissioner, explained that OVC bylaws require that a protest challenging a player's eligibility be filed during the school year when the alleged violation occurred.

Therefore, although McDaniels is alleged by the NCAA to have turned pro even before his senior season began, Western will not have to forfeit any of its 12 conference victories.

A spokesman for the NCAA indicated that a lawsuit will be filed against McDaniels and the Carolina Cougars of the ABA similar to action filed against Howard Porter of Villanova, who likewise is charged with signing a pro contract while still playing college basketball.

Like Porter, McDaniels signed a notarized affidavit with the NCAA in which he testified he had not signed with any "professional team, league, agent or agency." The affidavit was taken Feb. 4, 1971.

What Will Be Nicklaus' Encore?

MIAMI (UPI)—There sits the American Dream.

There sits suntanned, golden-haired Jack Nicklaus talking to sports writers about his win Monday in the $150,000 Doral-Eastern Open Golf Tournament.

He's rich. He's famous. He's well liked. He loves what he is doing. He has a lovely family, and there is no sign at age 32 that any of this will end anytime soon.

What do you do for an encore if you're Nicklaus at this stage of your great career? You win a four-way grand slam, that's what you do.

Nicklaus still insists that the grand slam is possible.

"I'll have a little mental advantage this year," Nicklaus said, "because all four tournaments are on courses I like."

Nicklaus made his comments after shooting a two-under par 70 on the final round of the rain-delayed Doral Tournament. The $30,000 first prize check put him ahead of Arnold Palmer on the all-time money winning list by $6,000. Nicklaus now has won nearly $1.6 million.

The "Golden Bear" beat Lee Trevino and Bob Rosburg by two strokes with a 276 four-round total, 12 under par. Trevino shot a par 72 Monday and Rosburg carded a 68.

Amazing Sam Snead, who will be 60 years old in May, shot a par 72 over the 7,028-yard Doral Country Club "Blue Monster" course and finished alone in fourth place, picking up a $7,000 check.

Nicklaus has dominated the tour of 10 years now, had bad news for the rest of the pros on the tour. He is only halfway through his career.

"I'll certainly be playing 10 years from now, although I may not be playing much," he said.

His win Monday was the 36th of his career and his second this year. It also pushed his money winnings to $94,000, the best on the tour his winter.

Nicklaus vaulted into contention with a third round 64 Sunday after shooting two 71s on the first two rounds. He parred the first 13 holes Monday, then fired birdies on the 14th and 16th to pull away from Trevino and Rosburg.

Mets: A Familiar Problem

By United Press International

The New York Mets, who have been travelling downhill since their miracle World Series victory in 1969, faced a problem today which they thought they had solved with a big winter trade.

Jim Fregosi, acquired from the California Angels in the belief that he would become the first full-time third baseman in the Mets' history, was discovered Monday to have a broken right thumb and will be sidelined three to four weeks. Fregosi apparently suffered the injury during infield drills last Saturday.

"It's a disturbing injury because it's a major injury," said Gil Hodges, the Mets' unusually unflappable manager. "I had hoped Fregosi would get to know the National League pitchers in the exhibition games. Now he's got to come back with the season already underway and work himself into shape."

Coach Eddie Yost, who had been assigned to teach the 29-year-old Fregosi, who played shortstop in his previous nine seasons in the majors, the art of playing third, also pointed out, "now he won't be able to get his arm into shape before the season starts."

Fregosi, who batted .233 with five homers and 33 runs batted in for the Angels last season, was obtained for pitchers Nolan Ryan and Don Rose and outfielder Leroy Stanton. Hodges said Tim Foli, Wayne Garrett and Teddy Martinez will get trials at third pending Fregosi's return.

Garrett, Ken Boswell and pitcher Ray Sadecki drove in two runs each as the Mets beat the Boston Sox, 8-2, in Monday's exhibition game ... Aurelio Rodriguez drove in two runs with a double and a single as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-0, behind the five-hit pitching of Tom Timmerman, Bill Gilbreth and Chuck Seelbach.

Joe Torre, the National League's MVP in 1971, said he didn't want to be traded by the St. Louis Cardinals and indicated that he might accept their offer of a two-year contract stepping from $130,000 in 1972 to 150,000 in 1973 ... Atlanta Brave Vice President Paul Richards announced that Earl Williams, the NL Rookie of the Year in 1971, has "tentatively" agreed to his 1972 contract. Willie Crawford singled and doubled home a pair of runs in the Los Angeles Dodgers' intra-squad game.

Horacio Pina, Mike Paul and Ron Law pitched a seven-hitter in the Texas Rangers' 11-4 triumph over the Chicago White Sox ... General Manager John Quinn said the Philadelphia Phillies are in the market for a right-handed starting pitcher ... Rookie Bob Darwin drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a double to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 10-1 win over the New York Yankees ... Left-handers Dan McGinn and Balor Moore were praised by manager Gene Mauch after the Montreal Expos' workout.

Sal Bando's three-run homer and Mike Epstein's solo homer led the Warren Hackers to a 7-3 victory over the Vern Hoscheits in the Oakland Athletics' intra-squad game ... Shortstop Leo Cardenas, who has been missing without explanation, notified General Manager Harry Dalton of the Angels that he is en route ... Frank Duffy had two hits and two stolen bases and Buddy Bell had a triple and two singles in the Cleveland Indians' intra-squad game.

Strike Continues At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (UPI) — Aqueduct Race Track was shut down for the second straight day today as striking pari-mutuel clerks and the New York Racing Association (NYRA) apparently remained far apart in their negotiations.

There was no racing at the Big A' Monday and the cancellation of today's card was announced when efforts failed to bring the Independent Association of Mutuel Employees and the NYRA closer together.

It is estimated that the state will lose $325,000 in tax revenue every day the track is dark.

Andrew Squazzo, president of the clerks' union, said no new talks were scheduled and added, "I wouldn't like to see a long strike, but we feel very just in our cause."

Meyer Drucker of the New York State Mediation Service said late Monday that the "parties were still far apart." He said he was attempting to arrange a meeting between the sides but declined to estimate when one will be held.

The NYRA made its only new announcement through public relations director Pat Lynch, who said the racing secretary will continue to take entries for each day's card until told to stop.

The issue which caused the union and the NYRA to break off negotiations Sunday was the layoff of 75 clerks at the start of the season last Wednesday. The NYRA's offer to restore 31 of the jobs was rejected and union members approved the strike by a vote of 650-0. They picketed the two main entrances to the plant in shifts of about 20 beginning at about 8:30 a.m. Monday.

The NYRA says the layoff of clerks is necessary because of declining attendance and betting this year as compared to last year. It blamed inroads of the Off-Track Betting Corp., whose daily handle closely approximates the reduction in the handle at the track.

OTB Chairman Howard Samuels said he was "deeply distressed" at the shutdown but disputed claims that the inroads of his corporation were responsible for the decreases in attendance and handle at the track.

OTB is accepting bets on racing at Bowie in Maryland while Aqueduct is closed. It reported that its handle on Monday's racing at Bowie was $370,801.

Touch of Ivy Added to NIT

NEW YORK (UPI) —There'll be a touch of Ivy in the National Invitational Tournament next week.

Princeton became the first Ivy League school ever to accept an invitation to the 35th annual tourney Monday when it was added to the field along with St. Joseph's (Pa.) and the University of Texas at El Paso.

Princeton finished second to Penn in the Ivy League with a 9-6 record and was able to go to the NIT when the Ivy League officials rescinded a rule barring its teams against participation in any other tourney except the NCAA.

The three clubs in the tourney join five previously selected —Jacksonville, Fordham, St. John's (N.Y.), Niagara and Syracuse.

St. Joseph's will be making its fourth NIT appearance and its first since 1968. The Hawks compiled a 9-8 record this year and finished second to Temple in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

The University of Texas at El Paso finished in a tie with Arizona State behind Brigham Young in the Western Athletic Conference and was 20-6 overall. UTEP, then known as Texas Western, is the only team except for UCLA to win an NCAA title since 1963. The Miners did it in 1966 by beating Kentucky.

Ben Carnevale, chairman of the NIT committee, said further announcements would be made during the week but he said the entire field would not be completed until next Sunday. He said the seven-man committee was still considering about 2 independents including Duquesne, Oral Roberts and Detroit.

The runnerups in the Big Ten, Missouri Valley, Southeastern and Atlantic Coast Conferences are being given prime consideration.

Skelly Won Match

In Wednesday's report of District II wrestling championships, it was inadvertently reported that Sam Safio of Pine Bush had pinned Don Skelly of Red Hook in the Unlimited class. The winner was in fact Skelly with a pin in 4 minutes, 19 seconds.

NEW GM — Former Milwaukee Bucks player and director of player personnel, Wayne Embry, 34, was named the club's general manager Monday. (UPI)

Bucks Trim Celtics In Overtime

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Kareem Jabbar scored six points in an overtime period Monday night to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 132-127 win over the Boston Celtics.

Jabbar finished the night with 44 points to lead all scorers.

The Bucks had a two-point lead, 118-116, and the ball with nine seconds left in regulation play. But an inbounds pass from Curtis Perry was intercepted by John Havlicek and Boston had the ball with seven seconds on the clock.

Havlicek's driving hook with three seconds left sent the game into overtime.

The game started out as though it would be a Boston massacre. The Bucks committed nine turnovers in the first quarter as the Celtics had a blistering fast break and 53 per cent shooting to take a commanding lead of 36-20.

The Bucks were hot in the second period and outscored the Celtics by 16 points to tie the score at 57-57 at the half.

Havlicek led Boston with 34 points and Jo Jo White had 28. Bob Dandridge had 24 for Milwaukee, Oscar Robertson 25 and Wally Jones 22.

Highest Team Series Ever

Kathy DeCicco's 680 New KWBA Record

NEW PALTZ — Mrs. Kathy DeCicco, a 166-average bowler who has been leading the women's Top Ten since early season with 622, set one record and flirted with another in the 31st Annual Kingston Woman's Bowling Association championships here over the weekend.

Mrs. DeCicco's 680 in the team event, off lines of 246, 182 and 252, is the highest triple ever rolled in KWBA team competition, erasing the old mark of 628 set by Dot Rawding in the 1963 tournament.

The 680 also ties Evelyn Gross (1957-58) and Fran Kilpatrick (1966-67) for ninth place on the all-time high triple list for KWBA women. Mrs. DeCicco added 559 in singles but a 489 in doubles kept her form challenging the all-time all-events record set last year by Joan Jameson with 1756. Kathy had 680-469-559 for 1728.

With all four members of the team shooting 500 or better, Artie's Minnie Mitter Car Wash moved into the Class A team team lead with a nifty 2066. The KWBA is trying four-team bowling for the first time.

Joan Jameson and Kathy Diamond each fired 521, Perla Bollin had 513 and Barbara Finch 511 for the Artie's total. Jameson also rolled for Carriage House and contributed 578 to a 2015 second place standing in Class A at the first half of the tournament. John Minervini Body Shop leads Class A team gross with 2385.

Kathy DeCicco's 680 paced all in the Family No. 2 to both high net (1990) and high gross (2158) in the Class B team division. McCabe's posted 1814, Peper's Garage 1834 and Mme Specialty Shop 1849.

The Impossibles rolled 1729 and 1852 to lead both ends of Class C team event. Black Knight No. 4 shot 1531, Jelly Rolls 1683 and Burroughs Corp. 1657.

Mayor Henry DuBois of New Paltz cut the tape officially opening the competiton Saturday. The symbolic first balls were rolled by Ann VanDeMark, the oldest bowler competing at College Lanes and Johnny and Debby Zimmerman and Tommie and Debbie Sammons, four of the youngest bowlers at the lanes.

St. Mary Tyro Streak (17) Ends

KINGSTON — St. Mary's of Fishkill defeated St. Mary's of Kingston 44-41 in overtime in the finals of the Tyro division of the St. Mary's-St. Joseph's Kingston Invitational CYO tournament. The loss terminated the Kingston Tyros' winning streak at 17 straight in the 1971-72 season.

Two other Kingston teams came a cropper, with St. Mary's Wappingers topping St. Joseph's 58-52 in the Varsity finals and St. Martins Poughkeepsie trouncing St. Mary's 53-26 for the Junior championship.

In other finals, St. Mary's Fishkill nipped Regina Coeli of Hyde Park 36-34 in the Jayvee division but the Hyde Parkers came back to defeat St. Columbia of Hopewell Junction 20-18 for Small Fry honors.

Despite 15 points by Scipio Boler and 15 by Tom Caruso, St. Mary's Tyros trailed Fishkill most of the way. Fishkill led 16-14 at halftime. Kingston led briefly in the third quarter as the result of a 17-9 edge but fell behind in the fourth quarter and rallied to tie the regulation score at 37-37. Fishkill held a 7-4 edge in overtime. Steve Yellen led Fishkill with 16 and Tom Angelucci added 14.

Bob Blake (21) and Bob Connolly (13) sparked Wappingers' win over St. Joseph's Varsity. Rick Meiers potted 19, Tony Albany 11 and Gerard Perry 10 for Kingston.

Larry McGriff of St. Martin's equalled St. Mary's total of 25 points in the Junior finals. Dave Thomas added 13. Phil Timbrouck paced St. Mary's with eight.

Regina Coeli rallied for a 11-6 edge in the fourth quarter to nip St. Columbia in the Small Fry finals. The losers, paced by Ed O'Briens 10 points, led 12-9 at three quarters. Scott Devine scored 9 for Hyde Park.

St. Mary's Fishkill outscored Regina Coeli 6-4 in overtime for the Jayvee title. Clay Davis (11) and Mark Doyle (9) led the winners. Mark Fumasoli hit 8 for Hyde Park.

Travis Grant the Greatest

By United Press International

Travis "The Machine" Grant scored 52 points Monday night to become the leading scorer in college basketball history as he carried Kentucky State to a 105-96 victory over Carson-Newman in the NAIA district tournament. Grant, a 6-foot-8 senior who has been a Small-College All America the past two seasons, earned his nickname two years ago with a sensational display of shooting.

"It's a great honor," said Grant, who broke the record of 3,759 points set by Grambling's Bob Hoskins in 1953-56, "but the big thing for us now is to win the tournament." Kentucky State will face Fisk tonight in the District 24 finals to qualify for the 32-team tournament next week in Kansas City.

In the only action involving ranked teams, Louisville (No. 6) earned a Missouri Valley Conference playoff against Memphis State with a 102-83 rout of Tulsa and No. 19 Providence prepped for its NCAA tournament competition by ripping NIT-bound Jacksonville 90-76.

Jim Price and Henry Bacon combined for 46 points to lead Louisville to its 23rd vicotory in 26 games. The Cardinals finished 12-2 in the conference and will play Memphis State, which has beaten Louisville twice this season, Saturday night for a berth in the NCAA tournament. The loser virtually is certain to gain a National Invitation Tournament slot.

Ernie DiGregorio scored 24 points and Marvin Barnes had 20 as Providence beat Jacksonville. The Friars ripped off 15 consecutive points in the second half to break open the game. Harold Fox led Jacksonville with 25 points.

Elsewhere, Tennessee beat Vanderbilt 87-74 and Kentucky downed Auburn 102-67 to set up a Southeastern Conference showdown Thursday night. Sev- Auburn.

Foster's KO Raider Streak at Sixteen

SAUGERTIES — Foster's Coach House, a team with a 5-7 record, exploded for 29 points in the fourth quarter to shock the unbeaten repeater champion Raiders 85-75. The Raiders, who had recently clinched their third straight championship with a perfect 13-0 record had won 16 straight over the last two seasons.

Foster's pulled the biggest upset of the season by holding the short handed Raiders scoreless through four minutes of the fourth quarter and outscored them 21-9 in the session. The Raiders led 66-64 going into the fourth quarter but the Coachmen, although outrebounded 32-39, were deadly from the field and free-throw line, hitting 78 per cent on charity shots.

Dave Kane (21) and Cal Fox (20) did the heavy duty for Foster's, while Warren Gritmon dunked 27 and Ron Thomas 20 for Raiders. Gritmon picked off 17 rebounds.

Allen Bus Line just missed their sixth 100-point performance, as they routed Naccarato's Insurance 97-79 and eliminated the Insurers from the playoffs. Rod Chando sparked the win with 26 points. Don Komosa added 20 points and 20 rebounds. Captain Jack Naccarato led his charges with 33 points and Craig Burkhardt picked off 13 rebounds.

In the final of the triple-header, the Irish snapped a three-game losing streak to nip Mahogany Ridge 85-80 and clinch a playoff berth. Tom Tegeler rimmed 36 points and had 16 for Irish. Joe Evans 32 points and 17 rebounds and Alan Kane (26 points) paced the Ridgers.

In a makeup game, Naccarato Insurance trounced the Irish, 99-73, as Craig Burkhardt scored 28, Tim Murphy 26 and Jack Naccarato 23. John Kelly hooped 30 for the Irish.

This is the last week of regular play. Naccarato's play Mahogany Ridge Wednesday at 9 p.m. In Saturday games, Raiders take on Allen's at 1 p.m., and Irish meet Foster's at 2:20 p.m.

The SAA Night of Champions will be held Saturday at 7 p.m. Among the awards to be made are: pennant winners, The Raiders; leading scorer, Frank Allen; leading rebounder, Don Komosa; assist leader, Rod Chando; leading free throw shooter, yet to be determined. The MVP will be announced at the banquet.

Press Maravich Is Fired

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Press Maravich, whose six-year record as head basketball coach at Louisiana State looks like a rollercoaster track, has been fired.

LSU Athletic Director Carl Maddox announced Monday the firings of Maravich and assistant coaches Jay McCreary and Greg Brembrock.

Maravich's success at LSU was closely aligned with the tenure of his famous son—"Pistol" Pete Maravich—on the varsity squad.

"I have reluctantly reached the conclusion that our basketball program will have a better opportunity for success with a change in the coaching staff," Maddox told a new conference.

Maravich, a native of Aliquippa, Penn., took over as head basketball coach at LSU prior to the 1966-67 season. He promptly led the Tigers to a 3-23 season, the worst in LSU history.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Promises you have made are apt to be broken or changed unless you act with much care. Others, also, are apt to be lax or to deliberately make changes that are unacceptable to those involved. Avoid such action by using character and persistence. A new viewpoint can help you set conditions correctly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 10) If you have the courage to get into new outlets that provide greater advancement, you gain the approval of others. Forget that old routine that has long lost its usefulness and flavor. A quiet evening with mate is best.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take care you are not a buffer between those who are not diplomatic and those in advisory positions. Use own common sense now. Back a friend who is understanding. Gain the goodwill you desire that way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A higher-up could have an altercation with a partner of yours, but it does not concern you so keep busy at own affairs. Use that fine mind for bettering your own position in life. Show diplomacy at home, too.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you plan your time wisely, you can get that work done that is important early and then go off on some little jaunt that inspires you. Get rid of that feeling of frustration in this way. Dress nicely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have an opportunity to have fun and should do so, since the work you have to do is not really important right now. Let it go until tomorrow. Your creative ideas are good, so don't permit another to dash cold water on them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A day to make more concessions where home and family are concerned and to put the reins on associates who are running quite wild. Annoying conditions arise and these are an opportunity for you to act quickly. Get right results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't waste time with outsiders today who are cold and unfeeling but stick with good friends and gain their cooperation for your aims. Make appointments now for something important tomorrow. Don't take risks of any kind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Divide your time and attention between an emotional attachment and one of importance in your business life today. You know how to solve some problem now, so get at it instead of procrastinating further. Think cleverly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You must be careful not to lose your temper or you could cause some estrangement, other trouble at home today or tonight. Stop being so smart-alecky, even though it is nothing but fun for you. Consider the feelings of others more.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Instead of complaining so much, get busy and do something of a constructive nature and improve your lot in life. Sift through that maze of words where a distrubed friend is concerned and get to the core of things. Then you can be helpful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you schedule your time wisely, you can add to present income and still be able to see good friends you like so much. However, don't be extravagant with pals who do not understand that you have to stay within your budget. Show wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are not sure of all your facts, so refrain from speaking your mind with another or you could get into some big trouble. Make sure you follow every regulation that applies to you. Do not neglect that personal correspondence in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people who has to be complimented for good work done while young. Must be given encouragement by parents during early years, and should have the help of mate after marriage if this chart is to be truly successful. There is the fine quality of fairness here and your youngster would do well to get into personal advisory work, such as the philanthropic.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

SHE WANTS OUT: (Q.) Most of the girls I know are popular I'm not. I have always been rather shy with boys.

Well, I'm all ready to come out of my shell now. But everyone is used to the "shy" me, and when I speak up I'm either ignored or not really listened to. Please give me some advice. I'm tired of being a wallflower.—13 in Florida.

(A.) This "coming out of the shell" at 12 or 13 or 14 or later is not a thing a girl just decides to do and does. It is a matter of the emotions as well as of the conscious mind.

You must feel this change and this new confidence in yourself before you are ready. When you feel it you will know it, and boys will listen to you and look at you. I believe that very soon now you will feel it, and begin to be popular.

NO PROGRESS: (Q.) I finally found the courage to ask this girl for a date. We have had four so far—one to a football game (with dinner afterward), one to a basketball game, and two to movies.

On all of them, I couldn't think of much to talk about. I must have been boring. I didn't hold her hand or tell her how nice she looked. I did not kiss her. I thought it was too early for that.

Sunday when I called her she said she was going to be pretty busy from now on. She does work every weekday evening. But I work too and I have time on the week ends for her. Do you think she is tired of me because I haven't shown her any love? Do you think I should stop trying to date her?—Discouraged in Oklahoma.

(A.) I am not sure you are suited for her or she for you. You speak of compliments and kissing as if they were jobs to be done. I believe if you were really attracted to her it would be different.

Ask her for another date. If she says yes try to be a little warmer, but don't push yourself into doing or saying anything you don't honestly feel.

If she says no, accept it and look for a girl you can be more at ease with.

By the way, it is never too early or too late to tell a girl she looks nice.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The frequency of sound is determined by the number of times the vibrating waves undulate per second and is measured in cycles per second. The human ear is usually not sensitive to frequencies of less than 20 cycles per second, or more than 20,000 cycles per second, although this range varies among individuals, The World Almanac notes.

Elke Enjoys Charity Work

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Elke Sommer said it best: "Charity work in Hollywood is an opportunity to repay people for the good things of life."

The blonde, German-born star was speaking specifically about the Pisces Ball, an astrological gala for the Hemophilia Foundation of Southern California.

She and actress Juli Reding Hunter were lounging in the sun at Elke's house completing plans for the $100-per-plate ball March 11.

The effort by the ladies to raise more than $50,000 to fight hemophilia is typical of the time and devotion many celebrities—mostly actresses—invest in good causes.

Jane Russell is the driving force behind WAIF, an organization to aid orphans. Debbie Reynolds has raised millions through the Thalians for emotionally disturbed children. SHARE, founded by Jeanne Martin and a group of stars, also raises a fortune each year for youngsters with emotional disturbances.

On the committee for the astrological gala with Elke are Jack Benny, Russ Martin and Walter Matthau.

Some stars only lend their names. Others contribute hefty donations. Some—Juli, Elke, Debbie—spend hours organizing.

"I'm enough of a Pollyanna to believe that people who can afford to give their time and energy for less fortunate people want to help," said Juli, the wife of a millionaire.

"Our honorary chairmen include Shirlee Fonda (Henry's wife), Edith Head, Polly Bergen and Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

"Elke has been marvelous. She sent out a letter to stars and celebrities asking them to donate art objects and paintings for our benefit auction. The response was amazing."

Contributing to the auction were Kim Novak, Red Buttons, Andy Williams, Dan Rowan, Edward G. Robinson, Pat Boone, Frank Sinatra, Jerry Lewis, Buddy Hackett and Robert Stack.

"Because I am an actress there is a better response," Elke said.

"I work with many of the people I wrote to. And, of course, I see them at parties and things. They are much more likely to contribute something to charity for someone they know.

"They know they can call on me whenever there is a charity in which they are involved. One hand washes the other."

"The most impressive thing to me," said Juli, "is the way so many of the stars take time out to help others. They are busy, working all over the world but they do what they can to help."

Elke, wearing a bikini, said Juli had worked harder than anyone else.

"I know why you give so much time," Elke said. "We have it pretty good, you and me, Juli. Hollywood wives have everything, successful husbands, wealth, creative outlets.

"When you look around and see people starving in various parts of the world or talented people unable to work, you've got to put something back."

"Right on," said Juli.

Opening lead—♠4

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The basic defensive signal is the play of an unnecessarily high card to show strength or at least to ask your partner to lead that suit to you. This is the basic use of his high-card play.

Suppose it is clear to your partner that you can't want him to lead this particular suit. Then what does a high-card play mean?

It doesn't mean that you are wasting some spots for the sheer joy of wasting them.

It may be a suit preference signal to ask your partner to lead a high-ranking suit as spades or hearts instead of a low-ranking suit such as clubs or diamonds but it is far more likely that you are starting a high-low play to show that you hold an even number of cards in the suit.

South played dummy's 10 of spades at trick one. He hoped it would hold but East produced the king. South let it hold but had to win the spade continuation. Then he led a diamond. West ducked. He could see all those potential diamond winners if he rose with the ace. South won in dummy while East dropped the four. South returned to his hand with a club and led his last diamond.

If West had ducked this also, South would have romped off with his contract, but West had no problem at all. He took his ace and cleared the spade suit.

East had played his lowest diamond the first time. This showed an odd number of cards in the suit so West knew that South had started with just two diamonds.

Former Senator Newcombe Decides Not to Run

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Former State Senator Lloyd A. Newcombe ended weeks of speculation on his political future today by declaring that he will not be a candidate, for any office, this year.

Newcombe had been recommended by Ulster County Republican Chairman Albert A. Spada as a candidate in the northern Ulster State Senatorial District in mid-January. The district includes Ulster County from the Kingston city line, north, and goes as far west as Herkimer County.

Newcombe, in an interview with The Freeman, put it this way, "I would run if Ed Mason doesn't run. As of now, I have no notion that Ed won't run."

Assemblyman Edwin F. Mason is the only declared candidate in the new district. He is currently a Republican member of the State Assembly, an office he has held for almost 20 years. A dispute with Gov. Rockefeller over Rockefeller's spending policies led to Mason's removal as chairman of the Agriculture Committee of the Assembly in early January by Assembly Speaker Perry Duryea.

Mason, a resident of Hobart, has the endorsement of four of the five-county Republican committees and recently was "unofficially" endorsed by the Kingston Republican Committee. The county committee meets on Wednesday and is expected to nominate him.

Newcombe said he would not take Mason to a primary for a combination of personal and practical reasons. On the personal side, Mason and Newcombe have been friends and political associates since 1964 when Mason was a key figure in Newcombe's election to the State Senate. On the practical side, Newcombe says, "Nobody is going to beat Ed Mason in that district." Newcombe conducted a survey of the district about three weeks ago and it finalized his decision not to seek that office this year.

Mason's candidacy, or the lack of it, was apparently the key factor in Newcombe's decision to return to the political wars this year. "When the district was announced, I thought I had a good chance to get elected there. I have a lot of friends in the area," Newcombe said. Mason's announcement in early January that he was a candidate for office in the district gave Newcombe second thoughts.

Newcombe says he has no interest in running for the assembly or for congress, this year, or any year. "I loved the senate when I was there," Newcombe said. "I had a feeling of accomplishment working in the senate, a feeling of purpose. I'd like to return."

While not a candidate for political office this year, Newcombe, who has just turned 50, does not rule himself out of any future campaigns, particularly for the senate. "I intend to stay active," he said. "I will maintain my residence in Kingston and stay active in local and area politics."

Newcombe is president of Newcombe Cadillac-Pontiac and is vice president of Amos Post Inc., both in Catskill.

He was elected to the State Senate in 1965, served a year but chose not to seek reelection after the reapportionment of 1966. He was active in the 1966 congressional Republican primary between Hamilton Fish Jr. and Alexander Aldrich, working in behalf of Aldrich.

In 1970, Newcombe was area coordinator for Gov. Rockefeller's campaign in the seven Mid-Hudson counties on this side of the river.

YMCA Opens New Addition

KINGSTON — Six years of exensive planning were culminated Monday when the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County proudly opened the doors to its beautiful new $1.2 million addition on Broadway.

"We can thank some very generous citizens of the community for this new building," said Robert Stubbs, the Y's executive director. Some $965,000 has been raised through pledges during the past three years.

While the new building was officially opened Monday morning, formal dedication ceremonies won't take place until the week of April 2-8. All facilities at the new structure, however, are now in operation.

The new building lies adjacent to te old YMCA headquarters, built in 1892, with an addition in 1912. When the second phase of the Y's expansion plans are completed, the old structure will be torn down to make way for a new administrative complex.

But the emphasis Monday was on the new YMCA facility, and for good reason. It ranks among the largest and most complete YMCA facilities in New York State.

The predominant feature of the new addition, according to Stubbs, is a 37 by 75 foot six lane swimming pool. It holds 137,000 gallons of water; has a maximum depth of 11 feet; and has two one meter diving boards. The bleacher section along the west end of the pool can seat 128 spectators for swimming events or water shows.

Even more remarkable are the four locker room complexes in the new facility. They boast the latest in euipment — from whirlpool baths to sun lamps.

Among the luxuries provided throughout the four areas for men, women and children are two hot rooms, a special exercise room (with treadmill, stationary bicycles and other exercising equipment), a massage and hydro-therapy room, an ultra-violet room, nap room, a vended snack area, television lounge and a weight room. Each complex also has locker facilities, showers and drying rooms.

These facilities will complement not only the pool but the two gymnasiums, handball courts and game and club rooms in the old YMCA building. The Y's old mini-pool will now be reserved for outside organizations and events.

The directors of the YMCA had originally hoped to erect a large gymnasium as part of the newest complex, but those plans were delayed when the necessary funds could not be raised. Stubbs said the YMCA hopes to conduct another fund raising drive in 1974 to raise the estimated $400,000 needed to erect the gymnasium. It will be located to the west of the new facility. When that phase of the expansion plans is completed, the old Y building will be leveled to make room for the YMCA social center and office complex.

The YMCA presently has a debt of some $450,000 on the new structure, but officals hope to raise that money through donations and pledges over the next few years. It will cost a total of $1 million to pay off the debt on the new structure and build a new gymnasium.

A member agency of the United Way of Ulster County, the YMCA has more the 2,800 dues paying members and serves some 3,400 residents in all its programs. It has continuously served the athletic and spiritual needs of county residents for almost a century, and the newest addition guarantees added years of service.

Regional Meeting Set

STANFORDVILLE — A March 8 meeting of the Dutchess Regional Association for the Education of Young Children will feature Dr. Phyllis Busch, author of an ecology series for children and a resident of Stanfordville.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Vassar College Nursery School.

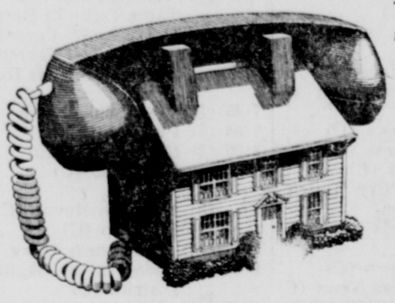

Dr. Busch, who wrote "A Walk In The Snow" reviewed by The Freeman this winter, received her scientific training at Hunter College and Cornell University. She has taught children from elementary grades through graduate students, and she has made film strips for Encyclopedia Britannica.

Her topic will be "Ecology and Young Children."

Dr. Josephine Palmer, Chairman of the committee of the mid-Hudson Association for the Education of Young Children, has met with the Dutchess committee in her Vassar College office.

The local emphasis will be to join with other groups in the area concerned with the needs of the young child for the purpose of acquainting the public with the variety of services available in the county for day care, group educational programs for young children, health care, and recreation.
